

Number portability should be mandatory and should be enforced to its full effect. Everyone should be able to simply register a phone number (in some way) and keep that number while being able to freely choose their service provider.